

nicaragua un regalo de dios

raspberry | kiwi | orange blossom | panela

this is quite a special coffee coming from a farmer who goes to great lengths in search of quality. luis alberto balladarez moncada owns multiple farms, but un regalo de dios is by far his prized jewel. located in the north end of nicaragua, the farm sits on 179 acres, of which 130 is planted with coffee. un regalo de dios specializes in variety specific coffees and multiple processes, growing red and yellow catuai, pacamara, maracaturra, java, bourbon, catimor and some other hybrids. luis' devotion has netted him several honors, including 1st and 5th place at the 2018 nicaragua cup of excellence, and 3rd and 13th place at the 2017 competition. this is our third year purchasing from luis, and our second year buying from un regalo de dios. we very much look forward to his coffees in the coming years.

this particular coffee is grown at 1350 - 1700 meters, and consists of 100% small bean pacamara variety. it is a full natural, with 25-30 days of covered, raised bed drying.
